

Had Dempsey Gone In To Kill In Seventh He Would Have Won, Says Menke

BY FRANK G. MENKE

So long as memory endures of that second Dempsey-Tunney fight, and its dramatic seventh round, the question shall come curdling back: "Why didn't Dempsey rush to the kill?"

When Gene Tunney came off the floor, he was a weak and wobbly champion of the world; a man with legs shaking under him with head dizzy with his whole body weak. A hurricane of blows, and Tunney might have gone down and perhaps to defeat and dishonour.

Jack Stry

But Dempsey withheld the rush. The "killer," spurned the chance to knock Tunney to the floor again with short, piledriver smashes. He seemed to be seeking the one long shot for the chin, or a stippling drive to the body that would knock from Tunney every iota of strength and send him toppling to the floor, never to rise until the kingdom of pugilism had been taken from him.

As Tunney peddled around the ring, circling one way and then another, in a dazed sort of way, Dempsey slowly walked after him, waiting, waiting, waiting for the chance to let loose with a crumpling smash, but the brain of Tunney, feeling though it was, seemed retained enough to keener to dictate to Dempsey that he should keep circling and out of the way.

One Chance Gone

And so, as "unlucky" circled out of danger, Dempsey circled after him. Precious seconds elapsed, and before Dempsey finally decided that he could not nail Tunney with a long punch, and that he must close in and maul. The change of his lifetime to regain the title had slipped from him.

Dempsey would have been winner of the fight in the seventh round and champion of the world again, if he had gone ripping, tearing, slashing into Tunney. But he failed in the moment when the golden opportunity was before him.

There seems to be but one explanation for Dempsey's failure. And that explanation is, overconfidence. No man ever rose from the floor, where Jack Dempsey had dropped him, and figured that Tunney would not be the exception. He perhaps reckoned that if he could not nail him again in the 7th, he had three more rounds to accomplish the job.

But Tunney recuperated in his corner, came out in fair shape in the eighth, weathered the shower of Dempsey blows, and, as the bell banged, there was a noticeable sagging in Dempsey. There seems to be evidence that he was tired. His legs were not carrying him around with the earlier speed, his blows seemed to lack some of their steam and his arms seemed to be wearying.

Tunney Rallies

And then on came Tunney with a magnificent rally that won him the ninth round and other mighty rally that won him the tenth and final, and gained for him perpetuation of the championship of the world.

Tunney was the man on Thursday night who came back from the brink of seventh round oblivion, when it was fifty to one against him. Tunney came back courageously and pluckily and matched victory from the seemingly inevitable defeat of the seventh round.

He came back because Dempsey, by his failure to rush, by delaying his ripping, tearing tactics, gave him that chance.

Much has been said and much has been written about the long count that was Tunney's portion in the seventh. There seems to be no question as to the claim that Tunney was on the floor for more than ten seconds. But the will be the last of Dempsey's flashing flaming lifetime. And like all the others in which this picturesque, colorful character of the prize rings has figured, it has its aftermath. Its big moment, that will provoke debates through the drifting years. They will talk of the long count and of Dempsey's failure to rush and tear into Tunney when rushing and tearing meant conquest for him.

And they will talk of him as the man who failed because he made one error of going to a wrong corner and then made another by not catapulting himself on a dazed and broken rival when just that much was needed to lift him again to the steepest heights.

Rickard Plans Gigantic Fight Arena In New York, To Be Ready By Next July

Will Seat 130,000 and Will Be Used Only for Boxing; New York Willing To Raise Price Limit on Ringside Seats from $27.50 to $40

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The next fight for the heavyweight championship of the world will be fought in a New York ring.

That much was determined today when Tex Rickard broke down bitterly on his plaid vest and admitted that plans for a local fight arena, to be used solely for boxing, were completed and that he would announce its site some time during the present week. The arena, he said, would seat 130,000 and would be ready for occupancy, by all or any part of that total, by next July.

For Next Fight

Rickard didn't say that the structure would house the next heavyweight championship. He didn't have to. If it will be ready by next July, it will get the bout for several reasons. One of these is that it will be Rickard's own, with no overhead rental or "cut," as was the case at the ten hour. A second is that the understanding is that New York has strongly intimated that it is willing to take the curse of its $27.50 limit and will go even as high as $40 in order to get the show. A third is that Rickard must have been assured that boxing is here to stay or he wouldn't have started the arena at all.

Once started, of course, it must be finished in time to get a fight that will go far toward clearing off the expenses of its construction.

Big Affair

The arena, as Rickard explained it, will rise in sheer banks of seats from the ring end, therefore, will give every spectator a clear view of what is going on, provided anything does. He doesn't say that such a structure would give him a chance to range his ringside seats as far back or rather up, as the anti-muzzled eye can reach.

However, it will give him that chance and it means that, if the next championship fight has anything on the ball at all, it probably will out-draw Chicago's record gate.

It goes without saying—new arena or none—that every wire will be pulled to bring the fight to this city, which has been no heavyweight championship fighting since the Dempsey-Tunney brawl of 1923. It goes without saying, also, that Rickard wants to bring the fight here, for he knows that New York is ripe for the killing.

It is merely reminded for him to get certain assurances and he is supposed to have gotten them.

Tex Holds Area

Of course, he holds all the area as far as the principals are concerned. All has Sharkey under contract over a period covering next summer; he has leg chains on Paulino and Heeney.

And today he declared openly that Tunney was ready to play ball with him at a moment's notice or none at all. Tunney was due to arrive from Chicago today and, with that million dollars in his reticule, probably will stand ready to "yes" Rickard on that one.

"Tunney has let me know that anything I do will be all right with him," Rickard declared.

As for Dempsey, the promoter would like to keep him boxing this winter, which would be very good for Dempsey and even better for the promoter. Anyhow, Rickard will try to sign him up for a fight in the Garden in December and another in February or March. Risko, Maloney, Paulino and Heeney are prospective indoor opponents. This would leave Sharkey for the big outdoor shot before the next championship.

WITTENBERG OPENS OHIO STATE'S GRID SCHEDULE SATURDAY

Willie Will Select Backfield at Last Scrimmage Wednesday; Grimm Recovered

Columbus, Sept. 27.—Final selection of his backfield to face Wittenberg's strong, fast squad in the curtain raiser here next Saturday at Ohio Stadium, probably will be made by Coach Jack Willie and his assistants Wednesday, when the Buckeyes will go through their final scrimmage before the opening game.

The squad today was to continue drilling to point itself for the Wittenberg game, following a stiff workout yesterday afternoon, and a two hour session studying slow motion pictures of the Saturday scrimmage between the first and second teams, to detect and correct errors.

The Saturday game will see Kris, Grimm, Alber, Marek, Eby, and a bunch of reserveists ready for backfield duties, while the first squad line will likely include Bell and Rowan, at the ends; Rankowski and Tridell at the tackles; Captain Meyer and Cox at guards; and Jack Ullery at center.

All of the reserve squad probably will get a chance to be under fire during some part of the Wittenberg game, unless the Bucks encounter unexpectedly hard going with the Ohio Conference opponent.

Harding To Play Galion Saturday in N. C. O. League

WITH A 10 to 0 victory over Upper Sandusky tucked under their belts the Red and Black gridlers started training for the opening of the N. C. O. league schedule next Saturday at Galion.

It was an easy evening for the boys, with just a little drill on the fundamentals. Coach Bohyer had a string of linemen going through their paces while Assistant Coach Compton took the backfield men for some kicking and blocking practice.

Punting Improves

McAninch was punting in good style, much better than was exhibited on the field last Saturday.

Coach Bohyer expressed his satisfaction of the game played by his proteges Saturday. "There were some mistakes made," he said, "but on the whole the boys played a good ball for an opening game." The coach expects to have the rough spots pretty well ironed out by next Saturday.

While Marion was taking over Upper Sandusky Ashland was landing Galion 13 to 7 defeat. Bucyrus, a Harding foe later in the season, played a six to six tie with Lima Central.

Since the strength of Ashland is an unknown quantity it is hard to say what the Red and Black will be able to do with Galion. Their decisive victory last Saturday showed that the local team has plenty of power in the defensive and is also snappy on the offense.

With an average number of breaks Harding should win.

Harding's first string left end, will likely be out of uniform for a week or so. He has a fractured shoulder.

NEAT LITTLE NEST, EGG FOR RICKARD

New York, Sept. 27.—Promoter Tex Rickard made a profit of $101,400 on the Dempsey-Tunney fight at Chicago a survey of the official attendance figures revealed today. This does not include receipts from the radio and motion pictures.

Although the number of paid admissions, 102,445, was not as large as when the fighters met in Philadelphia, the receipts were $763,450 more. The total gross receipts were $2,058,000 for the Chicago fight. Tunney received $1,000,000 and Dempsey $147,000. Rickard expended $100,000 to the rental of the stadium and paid $170,000 in taxes.

But not in uniform. His arm was in a sling. Perry or Wright will likely hold down the left wing next Saturday. Twenty-seven men got in the game Saturday.

MAY-BE MAY NOT BE SPEED BOAT WINNER

Captain Shields of American Entrant, Protests Judges' Decision

Oyster Bay, L. I., Sept. 27.—May-Be, the entry of Sweden in the Scandinavian Gold cup races here and winner of yesterday's event which ended in a protest of the contestants to the race committee that the course had not been marked properly "may not be" the winner after all. The challenging boats raced over what was said to be the usual twelve mile course, which was sailed over a six mile triangle, twice. May-Be, supposedly the winner led the American defender Lee at the finish line by a minute and twenty seconds, but Captain Cory Shields of A. L. protested that the committee had erroneously set the second mark at most a mile off its course.

After the meeting of a special committee last night had reached a decision to disallow the protest, Captain Shields made a further appeal to the controlling body and they decided to hold another hearing this morning. In the event that they change the decision announced late tonight, the race will be ordered resailed.

Over 900,000 feet of lumber was required for the extra seats installed at Soldier's Field, Chicago, for the Dempsey-Tunney champion fight.

A strange coincidence in connection with the attempted robbery of the safe at the Metropolitan store on S. The safe in Lima was blown.

The safe crackers were more successful in Lima, however. Glycerin was used to open the safe and approximately $1000 was taken. The robbery in Lima was discovered by the local police.

Korns then swore out a warrant against Edgar Bennett, of East Liberty, from whom he claimed he bought the car. Bennett said he bought the vehicle from Elmer Heath, who said he was unable to live the papers because the dealer of whom he purchased the automobile did not give him any.

Moderate Reaction of Prices Reflects Strength of Wall Street Favorites

MARKETS AT A GLANCE
Railroad stocks, irregular; industrial stocks, steady; foreign bonds, steady; call money, four per cent; grain, irregular; copper steady; oil, irregular; cotton, firm; rubber, steady; sugar, firm; pig iron, irregular; foreign exchange steady.

New York, Sept. 27.—Both the industrial and railroad stocks showed moderate reaction today. The early selling of the speculative leaders received the encouragement from the professional traders who were ready to pour out a steady stream of selling orders where the market appeared to hold without wavering and in this way they forced a number of reactions which helped to bring the general decline.

The possibility of a drain on our resources as the immediate result of a sharp rise in sterling exchange has been a factor in the financial district, since this occurs at the time when the demands for money and credit are at their most exacting, the supply of money would be considerably reduced. But sterling has not fallen.

reached the point where it would be profitable to import gold into Great Britain, and the bankers at this point doubt that any large movement of the precious metal from our shores is in the making.

Nothing specially reassuring is evident in domestic business conditions, while railroad earnings continued to make unfavorable comparisons with the same month a year ago. Operations on the steel mills were unchanged. Call money ruled at 4 per cent, but banks withdrew a considerable volume of money from the call loan market in preparation for the October settlements, which will be unusually heavy this year.

MOVE WIRES AND ALL
A two-story brick building in Kansas City used as a telephone exchange was recently moved 15 feet to permit of the widening of the street, without any interference with the telephone service. By means of flexible connections installed for the purpose, not only the hundreds of telephone lines but the gas, water and sewer service in the building served without interruption while the structure was being moved to its new location.

COW WITH WOODEN LEG
A cow with a wooden leg is to be seen among the stock of Miss Anna Penrose in New South Wales. The animal broke its leg when 18 months old, and Miss Penrose put the limb in splints. This not proving successful, she amputated the leg herself, and devised an ingenious artificial limb to take its place. The cow is now eight years old and in perfect health. She has had three calves and is one of the best milkers in the herd.

The Christian church in Sauknot, Ind., did not have money to pay a preacher, but it has obtained the services of a neighboring clergyman through the summer in return for an old hen and five dozen eggs each week.

POISONS CORN TO KILL CROWS

Vaughan Gibson, Montgomery Township, Nets $36.75 for Hour's Work

A new plan for killing crows was disclosed at the county auditor's office yesterday, when Vaughan Gibson, of Montgomery Township, received one of the largest payments for crows' heads ever recorded here.

Poisoned corn, scattered in a wooded area where large flocks of crows assemble frequently, put 147 crows out of existence in a few hours time and netted Gibson $36.75. The corn was saturated with strychnine, Gibson informed county officials, who stated that this was the first time that plan of exterminating crows ever came to their attention.

Kills 217 Birds
Gibson's killings totalled 217 birds, a gun being used to bring down those not removed by the poison route. The check received by him was for $34.25, figured at the rate of 25 cents for each head, the amount stipulated by law. The 217 were killed in six days, Vaughan stated.

Under the state law, crows' heads are delivered to the township clerk and payments are made by the county auditor on the clerk's certificate. The law places no restrictions on methods used by crow hunters.

County Auditor Thomas stated today that payments for crows' heads in Marion county will total approximately $750 this year. The law requires commissioners to appropriate $1,500 annually for this purpose.

People will kindly tell young folks when they are foolish, but not a word will be said to those who have reached middle age.

Former Marion Resident Supervises Huge Project In South San Francisco

George W. Thompson, Born and Educated Here, Awarded Distinction of Occupying First Auto To Cross Over New Subway Route

When the South San Francisco Underpass, a $275,000 subway constructed to eliminate traffic congestion, was formally opened recently, George W. Thompson, a former Marion man, occupied one of the posts of honor in the ceremony. Thompson, who was born here and received his preliminary education in the local schools, was supervising engineer of the project.

A copy of the South San Francisco Enterprise, received by friends of Thompson here yesterday, gives an extensive account of the opening, which took place on Sept. 15 and was featured by a street parade seven city blocks in length. It was estimated that 2,000 persons were in the line of march.

Thompson, the newspaper account states, was awarded the distinction of occupying the first automobile to pass over the subway route, which leads from South San Francisco to the city proper beneath the tracks of the Southern Pacific Railway.

In addition to the parade, there was a program of ceremonies including a banquet and speech-making, arranged by the South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.

Important Project

The Underpass, called the "Gateway to San Francisco," is one of the most important engineering projects undertaken in the Pacific Coast city in recent years. A huge viaduct constructed above the street leading into the city proper is now used as the right-of-way for the Southern Pacific and an interurban line, approximately two dozen tracks passing over it.

Thompson, who is employed as a resident engineer by the California state highway department, was assigned to take charge of the South San Francisco project when it was partially completed. His work as supervisor is praised in newspaper accounts of the opening ceremony.

Worked Here

Thompson has been with the state highway department since about six years ago, when he went to the coast state following a temporary period of employment at the Marion County surveyor's office. His connection with the surveyor's office here was only for a brief period when he visited in Marion several months after having been engaged in forestry and engineering work throughout the country.

Thompson, who is 37 years of age, graduated from the local high school in 1908 and later from the Baltimore School of Forestry in Annapolis, Md. His parents were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. H. Thompson, originally residents of Salt Rock Township and who later made their home on E. Center st.

Following completion of his schooling, Thompson was employed in the federal forestry service and in engineering work in various parts of the country.

DRIVE IS LAUNCHED FOR QUIVER JUNIOR

Contest Will Be Feature of Campaign for Subscriptions This Year

In the form of a "Miss America" or "beauty contest," the drive for subscriptions to the Harding High School weekly publication, the Quiver Junior, was launched yesterday at the school. Each of the home rooms, where students assemble for opening exercises and first period class, each morning, were designated as a state, the one selling the largest percentage of subscriptions to be named "Miss America" and presented a suitable award.

A large bulletin board, representing the "boardwalk" at Atlantic City, with paper dolls to represent the various rooms, was placed on second floor as a means of announcing the progress of the contest.

Yesterday's report showed "Miss Indiana," the home room in charge of Miss Edith Brown, leading with 92 per cent of subscriptions, while "Miss Florida," the home room in charge of Miss Lucile Foreman, faculty advisor for the Quiver and Journalism teacher, was second with 80 per cent and "Miss Mississippi," Ervin H. Shadle's home room, third with 85 per cent.

The first issue of the Quiver Junior appeared last Friday in place of Thursday as scheduled. Robert Elliott edits the paper. Selection of reporters and editorial staff will take place in the near future.

Behind the Screen

Let's hope the barbers don't see this. They'll be so mad, Billie Dove certainly does know how to arrange her crowning glory, doesn't she? And it's not a bob either. Oh, but won't the barbers be mad!

Billie just twists her hair behind her ears, gathers it at the nape of the neck—and well, the result would make the best looking bob curl up with envy.

But we know why Billie fixes her hair this way. It's to show off the good-looking ear ring.

THE British are going into the war picture business, too. And word trickles from across the ocean that their battle scenes are better than ours. Or at least—just as good.

"The Hunner" is a notable film depicting the now historic Battle of the Somme, which took place in 1916, when the British new army appeared in the field replacing "old contingents."

The picture is unique in that, unlike most American pictures, it gives the Germans an even break. One of the scenes shows the German shelling British troops with captured guns and several deaths of enemy heroism are depicted.

Canadian troops are given a big play and that might help when the film is brought to America for showings. We'd like to see it.

Mme. Amelia Wagner, who claims to be a descendant of Richard Wagner, the composer, has entered the movie.

Percy Marmont, born a British subject, has returned to America and Hollywood after a visit in England.

After production of "Rose Marie" had begun it was stopped, a new director put in charge and now the stage success will be produced all over again.

Rudyard Kipling's famous story, "Kim," will be filmed. The production will be made in India, where the scene is laid.

Mary Astor has discovered a new material and it makes a very ritzzy-looking coat. The material is white string—the kind of cord that the butcher uses to tie the meat bundle. The string is knitted tightly and the effect is—well, interesting.

ORGAN PRAISES LICENSE LAW

National Real Estate Journal
Lauds Ohio System as Model in Article

A new real estate license system, created largely through the efforts of J. W. Jacoby, local attorney, is praised as a model in an article appearing in the September issue of the National Real Estate Journal.

The leading publication deals with the class of business, and the license law is being endorsed by a board of examiners headed by Jacoby as president, his appointment to that position having come as a result of his efforts to have the law passed.

His new real estate license law, "recognizes the fact that to conduct a business so important as that of real estate requires more than mere intention to do so."

System in Detail
According to the law, the article states, "it requires that the state real estate examiners after satisfying themselves as to the usual way that the applicant for a license is honest, truthful and of good reputation, shall give him an examination which may be by written or oral means. They are to examine him as to his understanding of the 'canons of real estate ethics' pertaining to real estate practice."

The excellent that one common-sense law so far recognized the propriety of the real estate license system as to state in official form certain fine lines of conduct which are drawn beyond and in addition to the universal heavy outline which separates honest from dishonest practice.

The license system is now functioning under the direction of the examiners. A total of approximately 1,000 licenses have been issued and 2,000 additional applications are expected.

Letters have been issued to practicing real estate dealers, Mr. Jacoby stated today.

ACTRESS AND PILOT RETURN HOME TODAY

Couple Stranded Five Days in
Sands of Death
Valley

Haywood, Cal., Sept. 27—Safe, after being stranded five days in the burning sands of death valley, Marion Mack, actress, and her pilot, Capt. Frank Tamm, who were forced down with their plane, "The Spirit of Hollywood," while attempting a flight from Cloverfield, Cal., to Chicago, were expected to return home today.

Word of the lost fliers, who had been missing since last Wednesday, was received here yesterday when they flew out of Fresno, Calif.

After exhaustion from hunger and thirst, they told of having gone down in the desert with engine trouble two hours after taking off from the airport.

Leaving their disabled ship, the fliers started to climb out of the death hole, after wandering over the sand dunes, decided to return to their plane. Finally, they succeeded in repairing the plane sufficiently to take off again yesterday morning and landed safe at the desert station where they were met by friends.

C. D. & M. WINS IN SHOVEL SUIT

Judge Rules That Electric
Company's Interpretation
of Contract Is Correct

In a decision handed down in the court of common pleas, this morning, Judge Scofield ruled that the C. D. & M. Electric Co. is correct in its interpretation of its contract to furnish electric power to the Marion Steam Shovel Co. and that bills for the service should be paid accordingly. In accordance with the decision, the temporary injunction granted the Marion Steam Shovel Co. following filing of its suit on Sept. 14 was dissolved.

Notice of appeal has been filed and appeal bond was fixed by Judge Scofield at $200. He suspended the court order until Monday to allow time for preparing the appeal action.

The suit results from differences of opinion between the two companies over deductions for occasional brief suspension of power service due to lightning and other causes. The dispute developed, the hearing in court disclosed, after the new Marion Steam Shovel Co. took charge of the management. The old company, which negotiated the contract, paid the monthly C. D. & M. bills in full and without question, it was stated.

Terms of Contract
Under terms of contract, which became effective on Aug. 1, 1922, allowance are made for deductions in the event that unavoidable circumstances, such as those created by storm or lightning, shut off the power.

When the new management took charge of the steam shovel plant, officials in charge figured deductions far in excess of those allowed by the C. D. & M. on the basis accepted by the old steam shovel company.

When the C. D. & M. submitted its bill on Aug. 1, officials of the Steam Shovel Company, according to testimony at the hearing, sent back a check for only a fraction of the amount, having taken deductions in accordance with their interpretation of the contract.

Sends Notice
The C. D. & M. sent formal notice that service would be discontinued unless its bills were paid in full and the Steam Shovel Company then filed suit, asking that its interpretation of the contract be sustained. In the same petition a temporary injunction was requested to restrain the C. D. & M. from shutting off the power pending hearing of the suit asked.

The temporary restraining order was granted. In deciding in favor of the C. D. & M. and dissolving the temporary injunction, Judge Scofield said that the contract does not provide for deduction allowances on the scale set up by the new Marion Steam Shovel Co. and that interpretation of the terms as approved by the old company during approximately five years of operation is unquestionably correct.

The hearing started yesterday and was concluded following a brief court session this morning. Guthrie, Strickland & Guthrie were counsel for the Marion Steam Shovel Co. and W. P. Moloney represented the C. D. & M.

Services Are Conducted by Local Congregation in Temple

Services at 7:30 o'clock last night at the temple rooms in the City National Bank building, E. Center-st., marked the observance of the Jewish New Year, 5683, by members of the Jewish congregation here. Henry Strickland presided for the service last night and also for another at 10:30 this morning in observance of the holiday.

He chose for his subject last night, "The Fear of Life," and this morning, "The Fear of Death." Music for both services was in charge of Mrs. V. E. Dombach and members of the choir.

Traditional blowing of the ram's horn was included in the service last night. The new year began at sundown last night and will come to a close with sundown today. The period will be marked by meditations on the part of the members of the congregation, calling to mind the misdeeds of the past year and consecrating themselves to a nobler life during the years to come.

Rosh Hashanah, as the Jewish New Year is called, will be followed by the annual week of Jewish ceremonies, culminating with Yom Kippur, the day of Atonement, which will be Oct. 6.

Charge Blackmail
Lawyers For Purcell Filed Case
Before Judge

St. Joseph, Mich., Sept. 27—Bringing the testimony of 15 girl accusers of "King" Benjamin Purcell as part of a gigantic blackmail plot, attorneys for the House of David today argued before Judge Louis H. Feed to prevent dissolution of the colony as demanded by the state.

"King" Ben's chief attorney, Erskine H. F. Dewhurst, who gave up his superior court bench in California and a fortune of $65,000 to Purcell, today declared the serious charges against the cult leader were part of the alleged scheme to gain control of colony property, valued at $5,000,000.

"Time and again the company officials have made promises to repair the tracks and time and again they have failed to keep their promise," he said. "I believe the time has come," he said, "when this should be stopped and the officials of the company be made to set a date when the work will be started or the tracks filled in with crushed stone."

City Solicitor Geras said the company had been notified both by letter and verbally that something should be done toward repairing the tracks and he had been assured by officials of the company the work would start not later than Sept. 1.

With many men out of employment, there is no excuse for the company working small gangs in their repair work, it was the contention of council. Plenty of men are available and large gangs should be put to work in order that the repair work should be done in the shortest possible time.

Realty Loan Co. Seeks Judgment for $2,042.20 on Promissory Note

Judgment for $2,042.20 on a promissory note and foreclosure of a mortgage given as security for the note is asked in a suit filed in the court of common pleas this morning by the Realty Loan Co. against Howard A. Stevens and others.

Mrs. Marie P. Stevens, former wife of Howard A. Stevens, John A. Key and the Foley Banking Co. are named as party defendants.

The mortgage, according to the petition, was given on lot No. 2594 in the T. P. Wallace addition to the city of Marion.

The petition charges that on Sept. 2, 1926, H. A. Stevens transferred property to John A. Key for the purpose of placing it beyond the reach of creditors.

The court is asked to set aside the deed to Key and order the property sold to cover claims of creditors. The Foley Banking Co. is named as a party defendant because of a claim it is said to hold against the Stevens property.

Seeks $30,000 Judgment
Harold E. Knowles, administrator of the estate of Claude L. Knowles, filed suit in the court of common pleas today, asking $30,000 judgment against the C. D. & M. Electric Co. This action substitutes a former suit which was dismissed because attorneys for the Knowles estate had designated the defendant company as the C. D. & M. Tractor Co. The court found that no corporation of that name exists.

If Stomach is Sour

Hereafter instead of soda take a little "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

Better Than Soda

For fifty years genuine "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentation in the bowels and gently urges this souring waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

Try a 25c Bottle

Insist upon "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drug store. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.
